Reformation day - Remembering our roots

On October 31st, we pause to remember one of the most defining moments in church history - the Reformation. Over 500 years ago, Martin Luther nailed his 95 Theses to the door of the Wittenberg Church, sparking a movement that would reform and renew the Church's understanding of God's grace, truth and Word.

Reformation Day is not merely about history; it is about rediscovering what has always been true - that salvation is by Grace alone, through faith alone, in Christ alone, according to Scripture alone, for the glory of God alone. These timeless truths continue to shape our worship, our faith and our daily walk with the Lord.

As we reflect on this day, may we give thanks for those who courageously stood for truth and for the living Word that still transforms hearts today.

Let us be reminded that reformation is not just an event of the past but an ongoing call for the church - and for each of us - to be continually renewed by the power of God's Word.

"The grass withers, the flower fades, but the word of God will stand forever." - Isaiah 40:8

This week's PRAYER POINTS

O Lord, grant that I may do Thy will as if it were my will, so that Thou mayest do my will as if it were Thy will. Saint Augustine

Personal PRAYER POINTS

As we go into the coming week let us daily pray;

That the Lord will help us to live a life of love especially in difficult circumstances, so that he will be honoured.

Live in love, as Christ loved us and gave himself up for us, a fragrant offering and sacrifice to God. (Ephesians 5:2 NRSV)

Give praise and thanks to God for the gift of his dear Son who, through his life, death and resurrection has shown us the depth of his love.

Congregational PRAYER POINTS

Please continue to pray for Ben Palmer as he has been going through a harder time than usual, pray that the Lord will grant him healing and be his comfort and peace.

Please pray for those of us who are far from elderly parents and other family members, pray that the Lord will give them peace knowing that he has them in the palm of his hand.

Please continue to pray for our year twelve students as they start their exams, pray for clarity of mind and calmness of spirit knowing that whatever the result it does not define who they are.

Local & Global PRAYER POINTS

Please pray for the church throughout our nation that the Lord will shine through it and that many will be attracted to his light.

Please pray for the governments of our nation, pray that those involved will seek the good of all and not just their own ambitions.

Continue to pray for the situation in Gaza, pray that peace will reign and that all fighting will stop. Pray also for Ukraine that Russia will cease its aggression and support peace in the region.

Please pray for our brothers and sisters in China.

Dozens of pastors from one of the largest underground churches in China have been detained. It is reportedly the biggest crackdown on Christians by the communist regime since 2018. Chinese police have detained Pastor Ezra Jin Mingri, the founder of Zion Church, at his home in the southern city of Beihai last Friday evening, his daughter Grace Jin told the media, from the U.S.

The long-time pastor has been under surveillance for years, and he is barred from leaving China. The house church was started in 2007 and was previously shut down but has still managed to grow into one of the largest congregations in China. Current estimates have the membership at about 5,000 regular worshippers across nearly 50 cities.

"What just happened is part of a new wave of religious persecution this year," church spokesperson Sean Long told Reuters, from the U.S. Ms. Jin told the Wall Street Journal that dozens of other Zion Church pastors and workers were also taken into custody or are missing in cities around the country. Long later confirmed that account, saying about 20 pastors and church leaders remain in detention.

This is not the first time Chinese officials have cracked down on Jin's church. Jin said that in August 2018, he refused a government order to install closed-circuit surveillance cameras in the sanctuary. "A lot of our flock are terrified by the pressure that the government is putting on them," Jin said. "It's painful to think that in our own country's capital, we must pay so dearly just to practice our faith." Weeks later, authorities outlawed the 1,500-member church and banned him from preaching. "It's probably the largest incident of the government using public power to apply pressure on a house church in the past ten years, and it is still going on today," warned Jin. There are two main types of churches in China:

registered and unregistered. Registered congregations, also known as Three-Self Churches, are government-approved because they've agreed to obey communist rules. The other is the underground church. That group of churches isn't necessarily hidden or secret under the police state of the Chinese Communist Party (CCP) but operates outside government control. For decades, the house churches have faced intense persecution.

Lately, the CCP has been cracking down on the spread of religion over the internet. In September, they issued a new Code of Conduct for Religious Clergy on the Internet. The code stipulates that preaching on the internet "may be done only through websites, applications, forums, etc. legally established by religious groups, religious schools, temples, monasteries, and churches that have obtained an 'Internet Religious Information Services License.'" Another article of the code says that pastors "must not self-promote or use religious topics and content to attract attention and traffic." Jin is being held on suspicion of "illegal use of information networks," a charge that carries the maximum prison sentence of seven years. Jin's supporters fear he and the other pastors could be indicted on charges of illegally using the internet to post religious information. "He's been hospitalized in the past for diabetes. We're worried since he requires medication," Grace Jin said. "I've also been notified that lawyers are not allowed to meet the pastors, so that is very concerning to us."

Last month, China's president Xi Jinping vowed to "implement strict law enforcement" and to advance the Sinicisation of religion in China. Sinicisation is a term, in this case, that means every facet of religious life incorporates the Chinese Communist Party's ideology. Secretary of State Marco Rubio issued a statement on Sunday calling for the release of Mr. Jin and other Zion Church leaders. "The United States condemns the Chinese Communist Party (CCP)'s recent detention of dozens of leaders of the unregistered house Zion Church in China, including prominent pastor Mingri 'Ezra' Jin," the statement said. "This crackdown further demonstrates how the CCP exercises hostility towards Christians who reject Party interference in their faith and choose to worship at unregistered house churches," it continued. "We call on the CCP to immediately release the detained church leaders and to allow all people of faith, including members of house churches, to engage in religious activities without fear of retribution."

Discussion QUESTIONS

- What does imitating God look like in practice in our world today?
- In what ways can we show “a life of love” (v.2) as Christ did, especially in relationships that are difficult or broken?
- Verses 3–7 warn against impurity, greed, and coarse talk. Do you think Paul’s warnings here are countercultural or even radical in today’s society? Why or why not?
- What does it mean to live as “children of light” (v.8)? How might this metaphor challenge both individual and communal behaviour in the church?
- Paul contrasts “fruit of the light” (v.9) with the “deeds of darkness” (v.11). How can we discern the difference between the two in everyday life?
- Verse 10 urges believers to “find out what pleases the Lord.” How do we do that in practice? What role does Scripture, prayer, and community play?
- “Wake up, sleeper, rise from the dead” (v.14) is a powerful image. What spiritual complacency might this be addressing in our own lives or churches today?
- How should we interpret Paul’s command to “make the most of every opportunity, because the days are evil” (v.16)? What might that look like in a modern Christian context?
- Verse 18 contrasts being “drunk with wine” with being “filled with the Spirit.” What does being filled with the Spirit look like – and how can we tell if we are?
- How can worship, gratitude, and mutual submission (vv.19–21) transform the way a church community functions? Are there barriers that make these difficult to live out together?
